KING OF PRUSSIA, PA, Sept. 9, 2019: Tunnell Consulting, an organization dedicated to solving complex problems for life sciences companies and government agencies, announced that its president and CEO Maryann Gallivan has been accepted into the Forbes Business Development Council, an invitation-only group of successful business leaders.

The Forbes Council accepted Gallivan based on the role she and Tunnell Consulting have taken in supporting emerging and start-up life sciences companies, as well as some of the world's leading pharmaceutical, biotech and vaccine firms. She was selected as the Council's newest member by a review committee, based on the depth and diversity of her experience, and her successful track record of working with clients to assist them in areas including business strategy and organizational transformation.

"We are honored to welcome Maryann into the community," said Scott Gerber, founder of Forbes Councils, the collective that includes the Forbes Business Development Council. "Our mission with Forbes Councils is to bring together proven leaders from every industry, creating a curated, social capital-driven network that helps every member grow professionally and make an even greater impact on the business world."

As a member of the Forbes Council, Gallivan will contribute her expert insights in original business articles on Forbes.com, and also will take an active role in contributing to published Q&A panels alongside other experts.

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to join the Forbes Council," said Gallivan. "I look forward to making a contribution to this group, collaborating with other Council members and contributing thought leadership and insights on some of the most important topics faced by business today."

Gallivan is a prominent thought leader in her industry and has been widely published and quoted, frequently offering insights into areas including quality culture, organizational effectiveness, and change management. Under her expert guidance, Tunnell Consulting brings to every assignment a powerful combination of life sciences subject matter expertise and depth of experience.
